

Approaching Sustainability: Conversations with Leading Scholars

A series on the future of sustainability research and education

Coastal Flood Risk and Resilience in a Changing Climate

Talea Mayo, assistant professor of mathematics at Emory University, will be discussing numerical modeling approaches she's taken to understanding what implications climate change might have for storm surge risk and how to effectively communicate that risk to enhance the sustainability of coastal social-environmental systems.

JOIN US ON APRIL 2ND

• HTTP://BIT.LY/TALEAMAYOTALK •

FRIDAY
APRIL 2, 2021
1-2:30PM PT

SIGN UP FOR A 1:1 WITH TALEA
ON APRIL 8, 11AM - 2PM PT
REGISTER: HTTP://BIT.LY/TALEAMAYO1ON1

For more about the series: <http://bit.ly/approachingsustainabilityseries>

Stanford
WOODS
INSTITUTE for the ENVIRONMENT

Stanford
EARTH

SCHOOL OF EARTH, ENERGY
& ENVIRONMENTAL SCIENCES

earth.stanford.edu